Question 30: View About Filibuster

Which of the following statements comes closer to your view about the filibuster, a rule that can be used in the U.S. Senate to require the votes of 60 out of 100 senators to pass legislation: a) The filibuster is a good rule, because it forces senators to gain broad support for their ideas, and ensures that new legislation has broad support among the American people; b) The filibuster is a bad rule, because it can be used to block legislation supported by the majority of senators, and allows a minority of senators to block the will of the American people.
