

Brian A. Gallagher is President and Chief Executive Officer of United Way Worldwide, the world's largest privately-funded nonprofit. Under Gallagher's leadership, United Way is a global leader in philanthropic evolution and community impact, an approach that brings people together to create more opportunities for all.

In 2002, Gallagher became president and CEO of United Way of America, which in 2009 merged with United Way International to form United Way Worldwide. Supported by nearly 3 million volunteers and more than 8 million donors, United Way today is engaged in more than 40 countries and territories around the world, fighting for the health, education and financial stability of every person in every community.

Gallagher is a regular contributor to several high-profile global discussions, frequently speaking about economic opportunity and the ability of public-private partnerships to create long-term human success.