Henri Loh is the founding leader of Airbnb's Parents ERG. She has been advocating on behalf of parents at Airbnb and speaking publicly about the shifts needed to ensure parents in the workforce is sustainable. Her leadership emphasizes empathy for the voices of parents, brings awareness and accountability to the forefront, and amplifies the efforts of the many experts, collectively rising the tide for change. She believes the time is ripe to shift systems in the workplace from surviving to thriving. Henri's work on behalf of parents has been featured in Fast Company, on NPR, and more.
