PANELISTS

Suzanne Clark

President and CEO, U.S. Chamber of Commerce

🐦 @SuzanneUSCC

Suzanne Clark is president and chief executive officer of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, a director on two corporate boards, a former business owner, and an entrepreneur at heart. With a global perspective and a fierce commitment to free enterprise, Clark's experience in the private sector deeply informs her leadership of the U.S. Chamber—the world's largest business organization representing employers of every size and sector in Washington, D.C., across the country, and around the globe.

Prior to rejoining the U.S. Chamber in 2014, she acquired and led a prominent financial information boutique—Potomac Research Group. Before that, Clark was president of the National Journal Group (NJG), a premier provider of information, news, and analysis for Washington's political and policy communities. Through 2010, Clark led NJG through a period of rapid digital transformation, resulting in record-level profits and multiple journalism awards. Earlier in her career, Clark served in multiple leadership positions at the U.S. Chamber, including chief operating officer, and as chief of staff at a major transportation association.

Carrying her passion for business and entrepreneurship into the classroom, Clark was a 2021 Spring Fellow at American University's Sine Institute of Policy & Politics, where she led a lecture series on the role of private sector job creation. Clark earned a B.A., magna cum laude, and an M.B.A. from Georgetown University. She lives in Virginia with her husband and their daughter.
